CONFERENCE

How your sponsorship helps Oregon

Your generous commitment to become a 2016 RE:Conference sponsor will make an impact on the lives of tens of thousands of Oregonians. The dedicated professionals who attend the RE:Conference help our cities, counties and state thrive. They are from nonprofits, the public sector, philanthropic foundations and advocacy organizations. They are caseworkers, managers, directors and elected officials. And they all serve Oregonians who are seeking safe, decent homes, financial security for the first time in their lives or are making investments in their future.

Most importantly, the RE:Conference isn't a standalone event. All of the organizations represented at the RE:Conference work with Neighborhood Partnerships year-round to strengthen Oregon communities.

Your sponsorship will help Neighborhood Partnerships (NP) work with its partners to create opportunity for Oregonians with low incomes. NP is a statewide non-profit organization with a 25 year history of achieving deep impacts throughout Oregon's communities. We are recognized for our leadership in policy and program design, advocacy, and program management. We work with organizations, foundations, jurisdictions, trade associations, and individuals who are committed to improving life for all Oregonians. We are the manager of the Oregon Individual Development Account (IDA) Initiative, the convener of the Oregon Asset Building Coalition, and the convener of the Oregon Housing Alliance.

What our sponsors are saying

“Meyer Memorial Trust believes Oregon can be more open and equitable. Neighborhood Partnerships and their partners work diligently year round to increase housing and financial opportunity for Oregonians,” said Theresa Deibele, Meyer’s Housing Opportunities Portfolio Director. “The RE:Conference is a welcoming place for Oregon’s existing and emerging leaders to learn, connect and take action. Our support of conference participation is a continuation of the support we have given to Neighborhood Partnerships.”

- Theresa Deibele, Meyer Memorial Trust
Housing Opportunities Portfolio Director

“Columbia Bank is proud to support Neighborhood Partnerships. Their leadership and dedication to mission is on full display at the Re:Conference. Any organization or person that is part of this event will come back with additional tools, understanding and energy to apply to their work. If you have passion for supporting asset building of any kind, this is the premiere conference in Oregon for that very important work and is not to be missed.”

- Adam Stein
VP, CRA Compliance Manager, Columbia Bank

2016 RE:Conference description

We think you'll want to be at this year's RE:Conference.

Tuesday Nov. 15 will be a day to gather with colleagues for in depth conversations about housing policy, the Oregon IDA Initiative, and asset building in Oregon. We're excited about this opportunity to gather, learn from one another, and plan for the future.

Tuesday afternoon the RE:Conference kicks off with a reception, the ever-popular IDA Marketplace where IDA graduate business owners sell their good and services, and conversations with policy makers and elected leaders about moving our priorities forward.

Wednesday, Nov. 16 the 2016 RE:Conference continues. Join us for stimulating conversations, engaging workshops, and networking with partners from all parts of the state. The housing and asset-building worlds will come together to share ideas, forge connections, and plan for 2017.

The RE:Conference will feature national and local content about:

- Policies and strategies that will help more Oregonians live in stable affordable homes
- Promoting wide-spread savings and financial readiness
- Facilitating more people with low incomes owning a home, starting a small business or getting an education
- The latest research, polling and strategies about poverty, inequality, race and the role of government.

If you care about housing opportunity, nurturing small businesses, increasing access to the tools and resources we need to thrive, and giving individuals and families the financial bedrock we need to overcome the barriers of everyday life, you'll want to join us.
